

■ Comments from the Candidates

- Mr. Tran Duong Tan Phat (age 28)

I worked in the manufacturing industry for about three years as a technical intern and wanted to use that experience to work in other industries. Thanks to the pre-hire training in Vietnam, I was able to pass the specified skills evaluation test. First of all, I want to become a full-fledged medium-duty truck driver as soon as possible. After that, I would like to become an educator for less experienced staff and try to obtain a large Japanese license for myself. I also want to experience lots of Japanese scenery and food culture.

- Mr. Nguyen Van Thuyen (age 37)

As a technical intern, I experienced the job of supporting truck drivers. In Vietnam, I helped with truck driver administration and worked in auto repair. Every month, I had an online meeting with a Vietnamese employee at Nakano Shokai, and little by little, I was able to get information about the new job and alleviate my anxiety. I admire the sincerity of the Japanese people. I love the feeling of the country's autumn leaves and all four seasons, as well as the tranquil atmosphere.

- Mr. Pham Hung Thanh (age 33)

I worked as a technical intern for three years casting automobile parts. The Japanese people's attitude toward work and the convenience of their services were attractive to me, making me want to work in Japan. I especially chose to join Nakano Shokai because of its more experienced Vietnamese employees who are actively working in Japan. I would like to make the most of my previous experience working as a truck driver in Vietnam, and eventually try to obtain an operation manager certification.
